

Methods of practice

Anthology of lectures

Practice Publishing House

Contents

1	The Importance of Daily Practice	5
2	The Power of Posture and Stillness	11
3	Finding Stability in the Body and the Breath	19
4	Sitting in Silence	24
5	The Art of a Balanced Posture	30
6	Understanding the Nature of Attention	33
7	Body and Mind in Harmony	36
8	Breathing and Presence	37
9	Sitting to Meet Oneself	40
10	The Mind at Rest	41
11	Balance Between Effort and Letting Go	44
12	Understanding Emptiness and Clarity	45

13	Practicing Awareness Every Day	50
14	The Path of Experience and Direct Perception	52
15	Resting in Deep Stillness	55
16	Posture and the Flow of Thought	57
17	The Art of Inner Alignment	60
18	Awareness Beyond Thinking	64
19	A Posture of Total Connection	68
20	Walking with Presence	72
21	The Gesture of the Hands	73
22	The Rhythm of the Breath	75
23	Understanding “What Is”	84
24	Correcting Ourselves Through Awareness	86
25	Practice as Life Itself	90
26	The Quiet Wisdom of the Body	97
27	Infinite Understanding	103
28	Peace Beyond Grasping	105

29 Breathing with Awareness	109
30 Keep an Open Mind	111
31 Unity of Body and Mind	113
32 Moments of Insight	117
33 Posture in Motion	121
34 The Virtue of Calm Attention	122
35 Harmony Between Breath and Awareness	126
36 Understanding Unity	129
37 The Essence of Practice	131
38 The Breath of Understanding	133
39 Moments of Still Reflection	134
40 The Correct Posture of Presence	136
41 Unity in Everyday Awareness	137
42 Mastering the Breath	140
43 Thought, Breath, and Inner Clarity	142
44 Stillness and Depth of Mind	145

45 Awareness, Posture, Breathing, and Presence	149
46 Balance Between Body and Mind	161

CHAPTER 11

Balance Between Effort and Letting Go

In a world driven by speed and constant stimulation, sitting still can feel almost unnatural. Yet it's in this quiet pause that awareness begins to unfold. Mindful sitting isn't about escaping thoughts or reaching a special state — it's about noticing what is already here. The body breathes, the mind moves, sensations arise and pass. Through gentle attention, we rediscover a simple balance between activity and rest.

Over time, this practice builds a quiet strength. We learn to respond instead of react, to listen without rushing to fill the silence. The small act of sitting with presence — even for a few minutes — becomes a daily reminder that clarity doesn't come from doing more, but from seeing more clearly.

Stillness doesn't remove the challenges of life; it gives us space to meet them. When we practice awareness in this way, attention ripples into everything we do — walking, speaking, working, resting. The power of stillness is not withdrawal, but participation with full presence.